Move to Draft Thompson Set UnderwayHere

Board Chairman Smith Sees Chance to Get East Bay Manager

A move to get Hollis Thompson, Berkeley's young nationally known city manager, as county executive for San Mateo county succeeding Walter T. Kellogg when his term expires May 29, was being considered here today.

Answering a query from The Tribune as to a statement made by former Assemblyman Frederick Peterson before the supervisors Monday that he was definitely in favor "of a man in the East Bay," Board Chairman Hugh H. Smith revealed that he had been in contact with Thompson and that he believed "if we went after Thompson we could induce him to come" to San Mateo county.

"My only interest is to find a man who would carry out our plan of government in the best manner possible," Smith explained. "In looking around, I discussed the matter with Hollis Thompson, knowing him as a governmental expert and as a firm believer in the manager form of government.

S. M. COUNTY WATCHED

"Feeling that a man with his background, experience and national reputation would give the county manager form of government a real trial, I hoped to interest him in the county executive job of our county.

"Mr. Thompson, feeling, as he has publicly stated, that the whole country is looking to San Mateo county for a real test of the county manager plan, has evinced much interest in our county government, and even in the position of county executive.

"Hollis Thompson is nationally known as one of the outstanding city managers of this country. He served last year as president of the International City Managers' Association. He is a member of the board of directors of that association. He is a past president of the California League of Municipalities. For several years he has been manager at Berkeley. That city and Cincinnati have been rated as the country's two best managed cities.

"The annual report from Berkeley has won first prize for the past four years. Reports are judged by Clarence E. Ridley, secretary of the International City Managers' Association, who does the judging for the National Municipal Review.

MIGHT BE INDUCED

"Since Thompson has evinced such an interest in this county, I believe if we went after him we could induce him to come."

Smith said he might propose Thompson's name on Monday before the supervisors, who have been interviewing candidates for the position now held by Kellogg at $6000 a year. While Thompson receives $10,000 annually in Berkeley, Smith said he believed he could be obtained here for "a reasonable figure" because of desiring to gain county manager experience and because of his belief the eyes of the nation will be on this county's governmental structure.

The board could decide, if it wanted, to pay more than the $6000 figure, that amount being set by the charter as a minimum salary for the manager.

LABOR SEEKS 'CLOSED SHOP' ON PENINSULA

Work in S. M. County Would Be Held For Local Residents

"Closed shop" labor conditions in San Mateo county, barring laborers of other counties from work here, loomed today following the announcement of San Mateo labor leaders they would strive for a county ordinance protecting home labor.

The announcement came at the San Mateo City Council meeting Monday night as a peace offering, ending an hour-and-a-half debate between councilmen, labor leaders and City Attorney Ernest Wilson as the county labor council presented a city charter amendment designed to protect labor in the City of San Mateo from outside competition.

George L. Williams, Burlingame builder, made the suggestion that the amendment should be county-wide in scope, pointing out the proposed amendment would even discriminate against Burlingame labor in San Mateo.

Wilson quickly took up the suggestion and pointed out if the amendment were adopted only in the City of San Mateo it would "divide labor against itself."

Labor leaders Edward Brady, Richard McAllister, William Logue and Joseph Cambiano agreed to the proposal and at a special conference Saturday morning with the city council will thrash out the problem.

IVARS GET BOELLAARDS

"Because they appear to be conscientious, industrious people and of the same nationality as the mother of the two orphans," Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Ivars of San Francisco Monday were awarded guardianship of Leanna and Olga Boellaard, whose mother and father were killed here July 16 in a train-auto collision. Superior Judge A. R. Cotton, in handing down the award, said that the "Ivars appear to have a natural attachment to the children." Four other petitioners for guardianship withdrew.

Miss Granger Wins Contest To Christen Scout's Ship

A blonde will rule as queen of the local Sea Scout unit's christening of its land ship this evening.

Jernice Granger, golden-haired Sequoia high school senior and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Granger, 827 Brewster street, won the queenship Tuesday after judges had counted a last minute flood of 30,300 votes for the winner.

MISS JERNICE GRANGER
Popular, She'll Christen Ship

The result was so close that the votes for the two leaders were counted twice to make sure there was no error, according to J. Franklin Reid, head of the judges and field executive of the San Mateo County Boy Scout Council.

The dedication ceremonies at Sequoia high school gymnasium—scheduled to begin at 7:30 o'clock sharp and to finish at 9:30 so that residents may attend the flood relief dance at Veterans' Hall—were in the final stage today as Sea Scouts rushed completion of the land ship.

Final standings:

	Votes
Jernice Granger	57,400
Kathleen McGuinness	56,100
Mary Jane Russell	49,175
Patricia Wilson	41,850
Dorothy Leighton	41,850
Mary Abel	28,350
Alma Paksis	26,875
Shirley Bright	24,350

Atherton Tract Of Wooded Area To Be Subdivided

Intention to subdivide 41 acres of a wooded elevation lying partly within the Town of Atherton and partly in unincorporated area was announced today by Hare, Brewer and Clark, local realtors.

The firm has already conferred with the Atherton planning commission concerning zoning and utility requirements, and the installation of water pipes and the building of roadways will begin as soon as approval of the tract is given, according to the subdividers.

Fourteen parcels of land, varying in extent from two to three acres, are provided in the preliminary plans. Access will be gained through extensions of Stockbridge avenue and Atherton avenue via the Mezies road.

Final plans for "Lindenwood," a subdivision of the old Flood estate, have been approved by the planning commission and are to be presented to the city council February 9. Modifications have been written into the preliminary plans in compliance with the Atherton zoning ordinances regarding lot sizes.

Trustees Ask Repair Of School Bus Road

Walter W. Hilton, clerk of the Sequoia Union High School board of trustees, has filed a written request with the board of supervisors asking that immediate steps be taken to improve the road over Lakeview way in the Emerald Lake district, since the thoroughfare is "not as safe as it should be for school bus travel."

City Joins in Hearing Before Commission Tomorrow

Tree Planting Scheme Wins Councilmen's Solid Backing

Proposal that Redwood City be thinking about establishing and operating a city-owned bus system was being pondered by councilmen today following introduction of the subject at Monday night's city council meeting.

The suggestion was made by Councilman Robert N. Jones after residents of the Emerald Lake district, headed by Norman H. Robotham, president of the Highlands District Improvement Club, asked city aid in the district's attempt to secure better and cheaper bus service to the area. The demands for the improved service were heard by Railroad Commissioner Ray C. Wakefield at a 10 a.m. hearing tomorrow in the supervisor's rooms in the courthouse.

WOULD DEVELOP CITY

"I feel that in the near future, the city must think about city-owned buses, not only for Emerald Lake and other outlying districts, but for some of our own territory," Jones declared.

"It is doubtful if such a system would be profitable to the city at first, but it would help materially in the building up of the city. Property would be developed and home owners would be attracted here if we could guarantee satisfactory bus service to the outlying areas of our city.

"We should not have to depend on private bus lines.

"If bus lines were established, property along them would develop fast.

"In addition, we would bring people into town to shop."

Following action looking towards aid for the Emerald Lake transportation problem, the council voted on motion of Councilman Fletcher, second of Councilman Eva, to furnish enough water during the next three summers to care for trees and shrubs to be planted along roads in the lake district to beautify the area.

Rolison Is Favored As Applicant Quits

Second in two days to withdraw from the managerial race, Frank A. DePatta, 1902 Hopkins avenue, local life insurance agent, Tuesday withdrew his name "in favor of the man who I believe to be best qualified, E. A. Rolison."

It was for nearly the opposite reason that Former Assemblyman Frederick Peterson of Burlingame withdrew yesterday from the race for the $6000-a-year county executive position.

Peterson charged that the board of supervisors had already made up their minds to name Rolison, former Redwood City city manager, and were making fools out of other candidates by holding lengthy interviews with them.

County Newsmen Set Sessions With Legislators

Two meetings with legislators—one with the representatives in the state legislature and one with the county supervisors—were decided upon when members of the San Mateo County Press Association met at the Villa Chartier in San Carlos.

At a session February 18 in the Hotel Benjamin Franklin, San Mateo, publishers of the county will be hosts to State Sen. Harry Parkman and Assemblyman Harrison W. Call. At a March 1 meeting in Burlingame, the newspapermen will meet with members of the board of supervisors. At both sessions, common problems will be discussed so that the newspapers may better lend their aid to matters before the legislature or county board.

Illness Proves Fatal To Amos A. Varetto

Following a several months' illness, Amos Angelo Varetto, 48-year-old gardener, passed away Wednesday. Although a native of Torino, Italy, he had lived here for nine years, residing at 182 Bonita avenue. Varetto, who was a member of the Redwood City Nest No. 1484, Order of Owls, is survived by his mother, Mrs. Lucy Varetto in Italy; by two brothers, Mark and Johnnie Varetto; and by four sisters, Remalda, Neska, Della and Agnes Varetto, all of Italy. He was a nephew of Louis Destefini of this city.

The funeral will be held on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock from the Layng & Tinney Funeral Home. At Mt. Carmel Church a requiem mass will be celebrated commencing at 9:30 a.m. Interment will follow in Holy Cross Cemetery at Menlo Park.

John N. Davies, 75, Dies at Home Here

Following a period of declining health, John Newton Davies, 75, passed away Saturday afternoon at his home on Whipple Road. He was a native of Wales. He had been retired for the past 11 years, living here for the past 2½ years.

He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Martha Davies and a daughter, Mrs. Irene Hart of Berkeley.

TWA Super Sky Liners To Begin Continent Run

A new fleet of TWA Super Sky Liners will be put into service between Los Angeles and New York within the next few weeks, according to John B. Walker, vice-president. According to reports these new super-planes are the most luxurious airliners ever built.

The interiors were designed by Raymond Loewy and, according to reports, they set a standard for luxury which will rival the finest hotels and steamships. Engineers will be interested to know that each of these giant transports is powered with two 1250 h. p. Wright Cyclone engines. This excess of power is one of many safety features that will be brought out in the advertising.

"Utilizing only one-half the power of these giant motors, and holding the other half in reserve for safety," Walker said, "these new Super Sky Liners can maintain a speed of 200 miles per hour on the regular overnight coast-to-coast schedules."

'Flu' Epidemic Wanes In San Mateo County

Redwood City came through the week ending January 23 with "no new cases," according to the weekly morbidity report from Dr. Charles Gans' county health office.

The influenza epidemic appeared "subsiding slightly," according to the health officials. Influenza cases during the week concentrated in South San Francisco, where 34 cases were reported and four of pneumonia; in Burlingame, where there were 38 "flu" cases and one of pneumonia, and in San Mateo, where there were 33 influenza cases.

LICENSING OF PIN BALL GAMES IN CITY PONDERED

Council Orders Ordinance Drawn to Charge $24 Annually to Operators Here

Licensing, at $24 a year, of all legal pin ball and vending machines operating in the City of Redwood City would be authorized under an ordinance ordered drawn Monday night by the city council.

While members of the council were particular to point out that the mere authorization of the preparing of the ordinance by City Atty. Albert Mansfield was not tantamount to passage, it was agreed by the three councilmen voting for the measure that since the machines were apparently going to be operated here, the city might as well gain some revenue from them.

The motion to have the ordinance prepared was made by Councilman Evans A. Fletcher, seconded by Councilman Louis Christensen, and carried with their votes and that of Mayor Paul A. McCarthy.

Councilman James M. Eva and Robert N. Jones voted "no," Councilman William Hohn, ill with the influenza, and George McNulty, who recently suffered a broken rib in a fall, being absent.

Eva himself had introduced the subject when he offered a motion to license the machines for $250 a year, which he held to be a prohibitive fee which would drive them out of town.

"Personally, I'm opposed to the machines," he declared. "They are nothing more than gambling machines. If they don't pay off in cash, they do in slugs."

Fletcher took issue with Eva, whose motion was declared lost for want of a second, asserting that licensing would be a means of controlling them, and would prevent minors from using the pin ball games.

"If a dealer thinks he's going to lose his license, he won't let youngsters play the machines," Fletcher asserted.

He and the other councilmen insisted they were not "licensing gambling" since the devices had been declared legal, and the ordinance ordered drawn specifically will state only "legal" machines, illegal games being banned from the town entirely.

City Attorney Mansfield said he would secure copies of ordinances in use in other cities, particularly in San Jose, and submit an ordinance for the council's consideration at the next meeting two weeks hence.

Councilman Jones, in voting against preparing the ordinance, pointed out that the state legislature this term was considering legality of the devices, and that he believed it better to await outcome of the investigation.

Traffic Arrests During January Take Decrease

A drop in speeding and parking arrests featured an unusuaally quiet January for the Redwood City Police Department, the department's monthly report filed with the city council showed today.

Thirty-five were tagged for wrong or overtime parking, and 16 were halated for speeding. Cold and rainy weather that kept motorists at home was given as the reason for the decrease.

However, the same cold spell led to a rise in the number of vagrants forced to spend a day in the city jail, with 20 booked. Thirty-five arrests were made for drunkenness, but only one intoxicated driver was held.

Automobile accidents numbered 22, nearly all minor. There were no traffic deaths within the city limits.

Among more serious crimes, only two arrests were made, both in connection with ownership of illegal gambling devices.

Two New Patrolmen Won For Peninsula

Bringing staff of the county unit of the state highway patrol to 18, two new patrolmen have reported for duty to Capt. Paul Perussina.

The new officers are Elmer N. Grandy, who will be stationed in Burlingame for patrol duties in the center and northerly section of the county, and Neil Porter, who will live in Redwood City and serve the southern end of the county. Two more officers are expected to be detailed here soon.

2500 Attend Ball As $1000 Cleared

BURLINGAME, Feb. 4—Success of the President's Birthday Ball at Tanforan Clubhouse Saturday night was widely acclaimed here by officials and others connected with the annual affair. Under Postmaster Joseph V. Gaffey, general chairman, the event drew an attendance of some 2500 dancers to what was declared "the greatest ball ever staged in San Mateo county."

While official figures were not available on the proceeds from the ball, Frank A. Bloom, treasurer, said this morning that "at least $1000" would be turned into the infantile paralysis fund.

The age range of University of Florida students is 15 to 56.

MENLO PARK NEWS NOTES

Notwithstanding the fact that the California Service is to connect with the Hetch Hetchy shortly and supply its customers from that source, the committee having in charge the formation of a water district for Menlo Park will go ahead with the project. This spring an election will be called to organize the district.

The "flu" has been increasing in Menlo Park during the past few days. Many are down with the disease. It is believed with the return of sunshine and warmer weather the sickness will cease.

The heavy rains of the past two weeks have filled the Bear Gulch Lake and the Stanford pond, so that the spillways are overflowing, causing a good sized stream in the San Francisquito creek.

The Bank of America opened last Saturday evening with a blaze of glory. The interior of the building was nicely decorated with cut flowers and green wreaths. Candy and cigars were lavishly given the big crowd that filled the bank space. Mr. L. Johnston of Menlo Park is in charge. He has lived here for some time but was employed by the Bank of America in San Francisco.

Owing to the prevailing sickness, St. Joseph's School was closed for a week. The institution re-opened on Wednesday.

After a lingering illness Terence Gilmer of Menlo Park passed away at his home last Sunday. He was born in Ireland 15 years ago but a good portion of that short life was spent here. He was an exceedingly bright boy and would have made a success in life had he lived. He is survived by his father and mother and several brothers.

The election on Tuesday to merge this district with the San Mateo Junior College District was not very exciting. Only 153 votes were cast, 67 of which were in favor of the proposition and 86 against it. Very little interest was manifest in the contest. The vote through the entire district was about two to one against the merger.

The Central Grammar School has been closed for 10 days owing to the "flu." Studies will be resumed Monday.

A food sale to raise funds for relief of Ohio Valley flood sufferers will be conducted by the Menlo Park Parent-Teacher Association tomorrow, beginning at 10 a.m., in the Maloney Building. Donations may be left with Mrs. Charles Syverson (Palo Alto 3388).

Following the division of Menlo Park Girl Scouts into two troops, the older group has decided to be known as Shooting Star Troop and to meet Monday nights from 7 to 8 o'clock in the social hall of the First Presbyterian Church.

The girls are working for their first class badges under the leadership of Miss Jean Ramsey, with Miss Leona Goldrup as assistant. Plans are being made for a Valentine party later in the month.

Mrs. Carroll A. Devol has been ill for several days but is rapidly recovering from her indisposition.

The American Legion Post No. 443 and its auxiliary unit are sponsoring a dance in the Blue Moon dance hall Tuesday, February 9, at 9 p.m. Proceeds will be sent to the flood victims. Commander George Condos and President Dora Scott Devol have appointed the entire membership to work on this worthy cause. A splendid entertainment has been arranged and those attending are assured of a well spent evening. Price of admission will be 75 cents a couple, and 25 cents for women alone.

Mrs. James Jones and Isabelle Weeden Lindquist attended the Rebekah school of instruction at Burlingame Tuesday.

The Lindquist brothers—Carl and Wayne—have reopened their garage this week. Illness of both members of the firm caused them to close up for a week.

Menlo Park Parlor Native Sons and Native Daughters of the Golden West were well represented at the joint installation of Redwood City parlors Thursday night of last week.

OUSTER MOVE ON CORONER IS DELAYED

State Ratification Of Amendments Awaited

Ouster of Coroner William Crosby, asked in a complaint filed with the board of supervisors by five of the county's 11 undertaking firms, was referred Monday to County Executive Walter T. Kellogg, who himself has already been given his "walking papers" by the board.

This action was taken by the supervisors after Asst. Dist. Atty. Daniel Sullivan had advised the board that until the dismissal amendment, passed in the November election, was ratified by the legislature, interpretation of the charter clause on dismissals was in doubt.

There have been two lawsuits over the interpretation, Sullivan told the supervisors, and it has never been settled whether the county executive is the only one who can file a complaint against a department head.

He advised that the board, unless it was in haste, should continue the ouster proposal of the undertakers until March 1, when the amendment to the charter would be approved by the legislature.

Supervisor Fred E. Beer said, however, that in his belief the charges made against Crosby of discrimination and violation of the state probate code and the charter were "too serious to be delayed."

"We are compelled under the charter to refer the matter to the county executive, and I move we do so," Beer concluded.

Supervisor Alvin S. Hatch gave a second. The motion passed unanimously.

The Texas gulf coast's deepest oil well—10,560 feet— is located north of Galveston. It soon will be drilled deeper.

S. F. TROLLEY FIRM GRANTS TRANSIT PLAN

That Market Street Railway Company officials have agreed to go ahead with three phases of the five-point alternate rapid transit plan proposed by James S. James was reported here today by Planning Technician Ronald Campbell, who with Planning Advisor Hugh Pomeroy conferred with the tram officials in San Francisco yesterday.

Campbell said the street car firm executives expressed willingness to lend support to James' plan of prohibiting parking on Third and Kearny streets and to seek to have the sidewalks on these streets narrowed.

The third point on which they were anxious to co-operate concerned the proper synchronization of traffic signals, according to Campbell.

Campbell said that the officials believed that these improvements would cut 30 per cent off the time required for street cars to travel from the Third street depot to the business district.

The other two points of James' proposal, which he announced two weeks ago at a joint dinner of the San Francisco and San Mateo county boards of supervisors, were to construct a surface-loading loop at the depot and to have two-man street cars placed in service on the lines used by commuters during rush hours.

These phases of the problem were not discussed, Campbell said. They are expected to be the part of the James plan which may meet with the greatest objections from the street car firm.

Further conferences between the planners and the tram firm executives with the San Francisco Utilities Commilssion are contemplated.

PROPOSED NEW COUNTY OFFICE BUILDING

This view may soon meet the eyes of passersby on Marshall street, between Jefferson avenue and Middlefield road. The picture is the drawing by Architect William Toepke of the proposed new county office building, for which PWA grants are now being sought. The handsome structure, which may cost from $160,000 to $260,000, will relieve crowded conditions in county offices and unite many of the departments under one roof. The supervisors' chambers will occupy the third floor, with provisions being made for this third story to be extended out over both wings, if more space is ever needed.

New Boys' 'Y' Group Formed at School

A new older boys' Y.M.C.A. has been organized to meet at the Washington school each Thursday evening under the leadership of Jack Chappell. The personnel includes Pres. Julian Roldan, Vice-Pres. Joseph Roldan, Sec-Treas. Benjamin Gallegos, Members Henry Roman, Frank Rodriguez, Frank Vargos, Michael Garcia, Frank Romero and Frank Triano.

S. F. EXTENDS PARKING BANS AS AID TO RAPID TRANSIT

As the first step in a five-point program to bring about peninsula rapid transit through speeding up streetcar and automobile traffic between Third and Townsend depot and the business district, the San Francisco board of supervisors late Monday gave first passage to an amendment to the traffic ordinance extending the downtown area in which parking is prohibited during the evening rush hour.

Second reading of the amendment will take place next Monday, when, according to the Bay City board's agenda, rapid transit will be made a special order of business.

The amendment eliminates parking from 4:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. on Third and Fourth streets beween Market and Mission, Kearny between Market and Post and Stockton between Market and O'Farrell.

Only argument on the amendment was over the question whether the area covered was as extensive as it should be. Supervisor Ratto, chairman of the streets committee, explained that the police traffic force could not enforce the ordinance over a larger area with its present officer strength.

Decision to attack rapid transit on the more practical and less extensive front of speeding up present street car transportation methods, rather than through costly subway and elevated links to any rapid transit system the San Francisco board may adopt, was the outcome of the dinner conference two weeks ago between the San Francisco and San Mateo county board.

S.S.F. Man Heads Peninsula Policemen

Replacement Of Bureau Head By Man Slated

Health Director Gans Puts Blame on State For Conditions

Repercussions of the social service department investigation multiplied today with rapidity as county officials blamed the state for derelictions and revelations were made of staff shakeups to follow, with Miss Pearl O. McCormick, welfare head, slated to be replaced by a man director.

As Dr. Charles Gans, director of the health and welfare bureau, issued a statement which he declared was intended to "clear up definitely the smoke screen thrown around the case of a 15-year-old orphan, and a 60-year-old Atherton caretaker, accused of assaulting the girl," Supervisor Fred Beer joined with the director in placing blame for the incident on the state.

Meanwhile plans went ahead for a drastic revamping of the entire social service setup.

BARS 'FLY-BY-NIGHTERS'

The district attorney's office proceeded with drawing up of an ordinance which will place the licensing of orphan boarding houses under county jurisdiction.

Dr. Gans said that he believes the legislation "will be enacted very soon," and that it "will prevent fly-by-night people coming down here from San Francisco and setting up orphan boarding houses."

Beer, in addition to declaring that "if anyone should be criticized, it should be the state," went on further to charge that youthful state dependents had been "dumped" in the county, sometimes so late in the day that it was difficult to secure accommodations for the children before nightfall.

"Only nine out of the several hundred orphans in the boarding houses are county charges," Beer said. "The rest are all out-of-county cases boarded here at the expense of the state."

UP TO DR. GANS

In connection with the promised shakeup in the social service department, Dr. Gans said that the board of supervisors had been "very nice" to him and placed the whole matter of revamping his staff and removing "political appointees" in his hands.

Besides stating that Mrs. McCormick, named head of the department at the time Joseph Walker of South San Francisco was dismissed last summer, will be demoted to her former position of case worker in charge of old age pensions, Dr. Gans declared that "anyone else in the department who can't 'produce' will be released."

The health director further said that "ability to produce will be the measure of an employe's stability in office."

SECURITY PETITIONS SET

PALO ALTO, Feb. 3.—Palo Alto proponents of social security, led by T. J. O'Donnell, are circulating petitions which will be forwarded to the state legislature, demanding reduction of the social security age from 65 to 60 years and increase in benefit from $35 to $50 per month.

The Philippine Islands were named in honor of King Philip II of Spain.

BAYSHORE LIGHTS WOULD CUT ACCIDENTS BY ESTIMATED 40%

That an estimated 40 per cent of night accidents on the Bayshore highway between Palo Alto and San Francisco could have been prevented by adequate lighting of the thoroughfare, according to a recent survey, was revealed before the Redwood City Exchange Club Tuesday by William P. Bear, illuminating engineer of the Pacific Gas and Electric Company.

Bear, who was a consulting lighting engineer for the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge, which is illuminated with sodium lights, said that the survey showed that while only a fourth of the travel on the highway was at night, two-thirds of the accidents occurred during the night hours.

The cutting of accidents by 40 per cent, besides saving lives, would result in an estimated saving of $100,000 a year in monetary loss due to automobile wrecks, loss of time of injured, and doctor and hospital bills, Bear estimated.

Cost of illuminating the highway properly would likely run between $6000 and $8000 a mile for construction of the lights and between $2000 and $3000 a year for maintenance, Bear said a study had shown.

A bill, of which Assemblyman Harrison W. Call of South San Francisco is co-author, is now pending before the state legislature to illuminate the highway.

While highway lighting is rather new, there are now about 400 miles of roads lighted in the country, Bear said, declaring that practicability is being demonstrated daily.

Bear also presented a number of interesting facts about the bay bridge lighting to the club.

Other speakers were Basketball Coach Ray Dimick and Player Jim Needham of Sequoia high school, whose remarks are detailed in the sports section. Joseph Baugh was chairman. Pres. C. L. Sokes presided.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

By Dennis Wheatley

© 1937, NEA Service, Inc.; William Morrow & Co.

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOLITHO BLANE, British financier, disappears from yacht owned by his principal competitor, CARLTON ROCKSAVAGE, of Miami. A note found in Blane's cabin, addressed to his secretary NICHOLAS STODART, indicates suicide since he faced bankruptcy. A memo written by Stodart shows Blane's company stock, ARGUS SUDS, closing at a new low that day.

Other passengers aboard yacht GOLDEN GULL are MISS FERRI ROCKSAVAGE, Rocksavage's daughter; LADY WELTER; REGINALD JOCELYN, MRS. JOCELYN, Lady Welter's daughter and son-in-law; the BISHOP OF RIDE; COUNT LUIGI POSODINI and INOSUKE HAYASHI.

Detective Officer KETTERING, boarding yacht at Miami, finds strange marks on Blane's cabin carpet and blood on curtain. Upon examination, Rocksavage admits inviting Blane aboard to effect amalgamation of their companies. Mr. and Mrs. Jocelyn reveal Lady Welter is heavily interested in Rocksavage stocks. Then the Bishop is questioned. While he talks Stodart enters the room. The Bishop collapses in his chair.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER VIII

K. Good morning, Mr. Hayashi. Just sit down and answer a few questions, will you?

H.: Certainly.

K.: Will you give me your movements please from the time you came on board this yacht until you went in to dinner last night.

H.: Oh, yes. I came on board from a launch at 4:30 yesterday afternoon. After visiting my cabin I had tea with my host and some of the other guests. About 10 past six I went down to my cabin again to do some work, and remained there until after I had changed for dinner.

At 8:15 I came into the lounge, where I found the bishop and Lady Welter, whom I had met at tea. The latter introduced me to Mr. Stodart whom I had not seen before.

(FROM THIS POINT INOSUKE HAYASHI'S STATEMENT CONFIRMS THAT OF THE OTHERS.)

K.: Now, I'd like to know the reason for your coming on this trip.

H.: At the invitation of Mr. Rocksavage. We are business friends—it is nice to meet each other—and enjoy the pleasures of such excellent company upon his very beautiful yacht.

K.: Now, that won't do, and the sooner you come clean with me the better. This pleasure trip was a blind to cover a big business deal between Rocksavage and Blane. You're going to tell me just what part you were going to play in that.

H.: I tell you anything you like. When I say that it is a pleasure trip I speak truthfully, but I have already said that I was a business friend of Mr. Rocksavage, too. When business men are together, even for pleasure, their conversation is of their business also, most of the time, as I have frequently observed.

* * *

K. You knew, then, that business would come under discussion?

H.: Certainly I knew that.

K.: Well, let's hear the part you were going to play in it.

H.: I have the honor to act for the Shikoku Products Company, which is associated with my government. Shikoku handles various commercial concessions for the ministry of the interior and one of these has to do with the supply of soap to the armed forces and also civil services of Japan. This monopoly is of considerable value and Shikoku hoped to raise a loan of 10 to 12 million dollars on it.

INOSUKE HAYASHI FLASHED BY NEAME. 8.1.37 (NEA)

Also, this monopoly would have considerable value for whatever company acquired it since, if they wished, they could float a subsidiary company upon the prospective profits which the monopoly will bring and thus attract considerable new public money to their business.

K.: And you were about to sell this monopoly to either Rocksavage or Blane?

H.: That is so. I have been negotiating by correspondence with both for some time. A fortnight ago, however, Mr. Rocksavage called me that negotiations could go no further until after a conference he proposed to hold on this date. He suggested that I should join the party and said that, if I did so, he had every reason to believe that the affair might be concluded to the satisfaction of all concerned. I sailed from San Francisco to Panama and from there I came overland to join his yacht at Miami.

K.: I see. That will do.

* * *

DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S EXAMINATION OF COUNT POSODINI.

P. Hello! Hello! Has this writing room been converted into a photographic studio overnight?

K.: No. Come in, Count. It's just that we're taking a flash of all the guests on board before we examine them. Matter of routine, that's all. Sit down, will you? There are just a few questions I'd like to ask you about this unfortunate affair last night.

P.: Fire away, friend, fire away!

K.: Okeh. Now, would you mind telling me what your movements were from the time the yacht sailed till you went in to dinner last night.

P.: There's no mystery about that. I was having a drink in the lounge with Mrs. Jocelyn when the engines started to turn over. A few moments later Mr. Rocksavage joined us. We had another spot with him and then Blane's secretary, a chap called Stodart, came in and made himself known to us. We had another round of drinks to keep him company while he was taking some notes of share prices off the board for his boss. The lounge steward took those down to Blane's cabin for him and came up to say that he couldn't get any answer to his knock, so Stodart told him to take them down again and push them under the cabin door.

Just after that I said I thought it was about time to go below and change.

K.: Can you tell me what time that would have been?

P.: About a quarter of eight. Mrs. Jocelyn said she thought she would go down, too, so we went down together, after which I went straight to my cabin.

I came up to the lounge again about 8:25, and when the dinner bugle sounded most of the guests were assembled there.

* * *

K. Now, Count, what d'you know about the real motive for this party?

P.: Real motive? There's only one as far as I know—stealing a little summer down in these waters before New York becomes livable again. I'm just mad about sunshine, but maybe that's my Italian blood.

K.: D'you mean to tell me you had no idea that an amalgamation between the big soap interests was to be negotiated during this trip?

P.: That's news to me. The only thing that I know about soap is that it's useful to wash with. I didn't know either Blane or Rocksavage.

K.: But if you've never had any dealings with any of these people can you give me a satisfactory explanation as to why Rocksavage invited you to join this outfit?

P.: He didn't. It was Reggie Jocelyn who asked me if I'd like to come along for a few days' sunshine and big-game fishing.

K.: How long have you known Jocelyn?

P.: I met him coming over on the Normandie, and later developed the acquaintance in New York.

K.: Thank you, Count. That'll do for the present.

* * *

K. Come in, Cane. I just want to ask you a few questions about what occurred last night.

C.: Yes, sir.

K.: How long have you been in the employ of Mr. Rocksavage?

C.: A year and three months, sir.

K.: What were you doing before that?

C.: I was third barman at the Biltmore in New York. I did eighteen months there and before that I was at the Sporting Club in Havana, doing lounge waiter.

K.: That's all right; now, I want you to tell me all that you can remember about which guests came and went from the lounge from the time of the ship's sailing until they went in to dinner last night.

(CANE'S STATEMENT CONFIRMS THE TIMES OF ARRIVAL AND DEPARTURE OF THE GUESTS FROM THE LOUNGE, AS GIVEN BY THEMSELVES BETWEEN THE TIME OF SAILING AT 7:05 AND THEIR GOING IN TO DINNER AT 8:40.)

K.: Were you in the lounge the whole of that time?

C.: Yes, I was there the whole time, sir, as they kept me pretty busy mixing drinks, except, of course, for two brief absences between 7:40 and 7:45. Mr. Stodart took down some figures from the notice board in his pocket book, tore out the leaf and asked me to take it down to Mr. Blane's cabin. I knocked and there was no reply, so I took it up again, and then Mr. Stodart remarked that Mr. Blane was probably in his bath, so he sent me down with it again and told me to slip it under Mr. Blane's door which I did.

K.: That'll do. You can go now.

* * *

DETECTIVE OFFICER NEAME'S SHORTHAND NOTES OF DETECTIVE OFFICER KETTERING'S SECOND EXAMINATION OF THE HONORABLE REGINALD JOCELYN.

K. Sorry to bother you again Mr. Jocelyn, but I understand that Count Posodini joined this party at your invitation.

J.: Yes, that's right.

K.: Now, what part does he play in this business deal which Rocksavage, Blane and the Jap contemplated putting through?

J.: None at all. He doesn't know anything about it.

K.: Why did you ask him then?

J.: Because he's a nice fellow and I thought it would give the gathering more the appearance of a pleasure trip to have someone there who didn't know anything about the business which was contemplated.

K.: I see. How long have you known him?

J.: About five weeks. I met him coming over in the Normandie.

K.: Thanks, Mr. Jocelyn. That's all for the moment.

UNIFORMED FLAGMEN SOUGHT FOR LOCAL RAIL CROSSINGS

13-Month Study Brings Action By Council

Culminating a 13-month study of the problem, the city council Monday went on record urging changes in the grade crossing protection system in Redwood City designed to give the town the utmost protection on the tracks where during 1936 seven persons lost their lives.

On motion of Councilman James M. Eva, who has been insistent for months that action be taken, and second of Councilman Robert N. Jones, the council went on record favoring the following plan, to be submitted to the Southern Pacific:

Continuance of human flagmen, but in distinctive uniform, at the five crossings where they are now used: Broadway, Jefferson, Main, Maple and Spruce streets. The flagmen, under the proposal of the council, would be equipped with much larger red lanterns than now used. Bright spot lights would be installed over each crossing under which the flagmen would stand, thus making them more visible at night. The spotlights would be installed and maintained by the city. The uniforms would be purchased by the railroad.

Continuance of existing protection at Cedar (where there is a wig-wag warning) and at Brewster (where there are gates).

Leave Beech street as it is since it is soon to be closed under orders of the State Railroad Commission.

The recommendations will be made to the railroad, which in turn is expected to ask railroad commission authority to make the changes.

L. A. Girl Hitchhiker Struck Down By Car

Struck down by an automobile on Bayshore highway early Sunday evening, Louise Ladd, 23, Los Angeles hitch-hiker, was in Mills hospital today, suffering from a fractured left leg, various contusions and adhesions, and a possible fractured skull.

The accident occurred when Alton B. Bohn of Watsonville, driving along Bayshore near Main, ran into Miss Ladd, police reported. It was dark and Bohn did not see the girl.

She had apparently been hitchhiking from Los Angeles, and was crossing the highway when struck. She was thinly clothed, with only 12 cents, a cake of soap, and a few other personal belongings in her pockets.

She was treated by Dr. H. E. Mason, and then rushed to the hospital. Bohn was not held.

PLANS PUSHED FOR NEW ROAD ON PENINSULA

Reorganization Slated Of Highway District To Speed Plans

Reorganization of Joint Highway District No. 10 to permit extension of Juniperro Serra boulevard at least to Burlingame and possibly to the Santa Clara county line was underway today after the commission had discussed Tuesday in San Francisco means of getting larger state appropriations for the proposed thoroughfare.

The commission, of which Supervisor James S. James of Burlingame is a member, passed a resolution of reorganization under the 1931 Joint Highway District Act.

"This will take the district out of being at the mercy of the highway commission," James explained, "and will combine the budget procedures of the two commissions so that a definite amount will be set up for the district in each highway commission biennium budget."

James said A. J. Gallagher, San Francisco supervisor and president of the joint highway district, reported that Earl Lee Kelly, state director of the department of public works, has agreed to the state's contributing $67,000 for the purchase of rights-of-way for the extension of Juniperro Serra to the northerly limits of Burlingame, a project which it is expected will cost $300,000.

James, who said that the joint highway district under its revamped setup will seek to have the state pay half of this amount, asked a survey of the entire route of an extension of Juniperro Serra through Burlingame and Belmont and on to connect with Alameda De Las Pulgas and eventually Santa Clara county's Foothill road.

With more funds available from the state under the new setup, the new extension would not be prohibitive in cost, James pointed out, and would serve the increasing population in the territory to be traversed by the proposed arterial.

The survey, to be made by the state at expense of the counties, will permit the county planning

A sandbox will provide fun for the children, while three regulation horseshoe pits will take care of the oldsters.

A basketball court with regulation equipment and standards for volley ball, paddle tennis, and other games, is also planned.

Acting City Manager C. L. Dimmitt has set aside some of the funds to purchase additional apparatus for the Sequoia high school playground.
